ARREST HOURLY EXPECTED NOW

Coroner Will Soon Complete Test Being Made of Child's

ANOTHER UNSIGNED POSTAL

Missive Sad Murderer of Child Did Not Live Far From Perkins's House,

Coroner W. H. Taylor has not as yet concluded his analysis of the stomach of the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Perkins, and while it may be unofficially stated with almost certainty that death was due to poison this fact can not be elicited from the police or the chemist. Both physicians who at tended the little child prior to its death are confident that the symptoms were those of phosphorous poisoning. Yet they can not assert this with authority since neither made any analysis of the body after death.

And there is a doubt as to whether the analysis will disclose any signs of the analysis will discuss any saids of poison. The fact that the little child vomitted for several hours before dying may preclude the possibility of finding any trace of the poison in the stomach even though it caused death.

Unsigned Postal.

Mrs. Emma Perkins, mother of the two children, both of whom have died under peculiar circumstances within a very short time, yesterday morning received an unsigned postal card written by some peson who said that the murderer of the child was not far from the home of the Perkinses. This postal was turned over to Commonwealth's Atorney Richardson who will compare it with the other letters of a threatening nature that were some time ago received by Mrs. Perkins.

'The postal received yesterday gave the name of a neighbor of the Pekins, and the writer said that in this house she had seen a kind of paste being mixed and had heard the remark that the children of the Perkins family would soon die.

night what had been the result of his analysis thus far. He said, however, that it would be perhaps two or three that it would be perhaps two or three days before he waidd have any report to make to the decestives or to Commonwealth's Attoney Richadson. The process of making the analysis is a difficult one. Since the stomach of the child was brought to him last Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Taylor has been busily engaged with the analysis and hopes to complete his labors to-night.

will Call the Jury.

When this analysis is made. Coroner Taylor will call together the jury and the inquest will be held. This jury was summoned on the day of the death of the child—last Tuesday—and after viewing the body the members were adjourned subject to the call of Dr. Taylor.

After this inquest some arrests are expected. Captain Tomilison, chief of the detective department, has been working on the case but has no proof thus far that would warrant him in making an arrest.

thus far that would warrant him in mak-ing an arrest.

The mystery of the death of the two children following the threatening let-ters that were received, continues to grow and the arrest of some person who lives in the neighborhood is hourly exnves in the neighborhood is hourly ex-pected. This will be the means of un-raveling a lot of the threads that are now tucked under the cover of secrecy. Mrs. Perkins said yesterday she be-lieved she knew the person who was guilty of the villanous work and that she had informed the detectives of all the circumstances recording the death of the circumstances preceding the death of

Mr. E. W. Blakey, a well known member of the typosraphical union of Richmond, will have to answer to Justice Crutchfield upon a warrant sworn out by William Wylde, a linotype operator, who has been in the city several weeks, charging him with cursing and abusing and threatening Wylde. The warrant was issued yesterday morning. Wylde alleges that he fears bodily harm at the hands of Mr. Blakey.

The warrant being issued against Mr. Blakey caused a genuine sensation among the printers yesterday. It was the topic for discussion in almost every gathering of men who work in printing established.

CITY SERVICES FOR TO-MORROW

Rev. Lacy Hoge Has Six Services at Venable Street Church,

NEW SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH

First Meeting in Handsome Building Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The beautiful new Second Baptist Church will be opened for regular services for the first time to-morrow morning, when exercises will be held in the spacious basement lecture room. The building Itself is practically complete, but the furnitue has not arrived and considerable delay has been caused by its fallure to do so. A rough estimate of the total cost of the church, including lot, building and furnishings, is placed at $56,000, but it is impossible as yet to determine the exact amount.

termine the exact amount.

The building is situated on the southeast corner of Adams and Franklin Streets and to-day presents an imposing picture. A broad flight of granite steps leads up to the portice with its stately white piliars, The columns show the ornately carved capitals of the Corinthian type. Passing into the auditorium one has a feeling of great free orium one has a feeling of great free tornin one has a feeling of great free speciousness. Unlike most churches, it has no gallery and thus gives a full view of the lofty, heavily beamed ceiling which calls to mind the interior of a cathedral. On each side of the pulpit is a marble baptistry, while supporting the roof above are two of the beautiful pillars.

is a marble baptistry, while supporting the roof above are two of the beautiful pillars.

The entrance to the basement is on Adams Street. Here there is everything for the convenience of the various organizations of the church. The lecture-room is large and well lighted and is provided with comfortable chairs which can be reversed for the Sunday school classes. A convenient infant class room, with the seats arranged in tiers so that every tot can see and be seen, is another attractive feature. The church parlor is unusually large and has a beautiful tiled hearth and mantal, which will add much to the cheer of the room. Mention must also be made of the convenient kitchen, where a marble sink and roomy china press will make it attractive to every woman.

The very first meeting of any kind held

The very first meeting of any kind held in the new church was called to order yesterday afternoon by Miss Bettle Ellyson. This was the regular meeting of Circle No. 1 of the Building Fund Association, and was held in the lecture room. To-night the young men of the church will hold a more claborate and formal meeting.

TO MEET BUCKNELL.

University Team Passes Through En Route to Norfolk.

En Koute to Norioik.

The University of Virginia foot-ball eleven passed through Richmond yester-day en route to Norioik, where they meet the Bucknell team this afternoon. The game promises to be one of the fastest of the season, and the Pennsylvania gladiators will tackle a bunch that will give them the game of their life for victory. Captain Cooke, of the University team, Captain Cooke, of the University team, believes that several weak spots in the elevens have been strengthened, and that there will be no great gains through the line. that for weight outchases the Virginians. All of the Pennsylvania players are heavy and they know the game. Virginia hopes to be able, however, to hold the rushes and to win by fast playing.

Barry, the clever and fast end, who did such excellent work in the game here against Carlisle, will be in the game today. He was feeling in good trim when the train pulled into Richmond yesterday. Captain Cooke sent his men to bed early last night, and after a brief exercise this morning they will be in fine shape to tackle Bucknell.

President First to Sign.

Mr. L. C. Plus has just completed a handsome "visitors register" to be used in St. John's Church. The register was put into active use when the President made his visit here, and the first column of the first page bears the signature of the President of the United States, and beneath is inscribed the signature of Mrs. Roosevelt and other members of the party.

At the next meeting of the committee of St. John's, Mr. Figg will make the city a present of the register.

Dr. Pell This Afternoon

Owing to the number of events on in the city last Saturday, the beginning of the lectures on the International Sunday School Lessons was postponed until to-day. Dr. Pell will give his first talk this afternoon in the Central Y. M. C. A. hall at 5 o'clock. All Sunday school superinten-dents, teachers and adult scholars are cor-dally invited. At the close of the study the club will meet for reorganization.

May Be Justice of the Peace. Little Lawrence Hulcher, the wizard southpase twirfer for the Champion Brownies, will, in all probability, he a justice of the peace after January, Bt. By the death of Mr. H. Nolte, one of the Democratic nominees for the position of justice of the peace from Henry Ward, the electoral board will have to fill the vacancy, and Mr. Hulcher's name has been forwarded by Chairman Doherty.

Rather Serious Joke Now. Alderman William H. Zimmerman re-ported to the police yesterday that he had lost a very handsome double enso gold watch. He did not make known his loss any sooner for the reason that he thought some of his friends were playing a joke on him, as he was in compa with several councilmen Wednesday.

Hotly Contested Game To-day. William and Mary College eleven and the team from the Richmond College will tussle for victory on the Broad Street tussic for victory on the Broad Street gridiron this afternoon. The boys from Southside Virginia have a strong team, and they promise to put up a fine ex-hibition in the city to-day. The Spiders have strengthened the ends and the line is as sleady as it ever was,

Several Purchases-J. K.

Branch Attends.

An interesting story appears in yesterday's New York Herald anent the sale of the horses of Mrs. J. B. M. Grosvenor,

so well known as a Richmond Horse

Show exhibitor. The sale was made se soon after the death of Mrs. Grosvenor's husband in order that the purchasers might have a chance to exhibit them at which close to-day. The Herald says:

In spite of the rain last night the Amer can Horse Exchange was packed to the doors, when the dispensal sale of Mrs. J

B. M. Grosvenor's show horses was held under the management of W. D. Grand.

Not since the sale of O. H. P. Belmont's stable, years ago, has such a large and representative throng attended a horse

Richmonder There.

Among those present were Alfred G. Vanderbilt, W. G. Rockefeller, Jr., Harry Payne Whitney, Joseph E. Widener, H. McK. Twombly, Otto H. Kahn, James B. Dill, George G. Haven, Jr., J. W. Ogden, Howard Willets, J. Campbel Thompson, Edward Koch, Haven, T. Peters, B. V.
